

Case study – Architecting the Enterprise

The Situation

We were moving from serviced/ managed offices to our own independent office and needed our own personal desks, chairs, storage and all the added extras that are required when creating an office.

The Solution

We chose Sygnus, not only for the fair and affordable pricing but the quality of service (Jez) and the time, effort and energy put into creating and personalising our office. It was invaluable to have a creative expert in the field to give a range of ideas and solutions to save space and money which for our company at the time was a high priority.

The Result

The result is we have a fresh, open plan office with brand new, matching furniture that can be enjoyed by the entire work force. The seats are comfortable, the desks are spacious and the cupboards are more than suitable for our needs.

Even now we are updating the office with more storage and screens to compliment what already exists.

“I would recommend Jez Hodges’ sales and creative planning and designs services to anyone, business or personal. The implementation of the furniture on site was done quickly and efficiently and in a professional manner. Sygnus worked around our needs in terms of delivery and time restraints to enable seamless trading which we are all very grateful for.

It has been a pleasure to work with Sygnus and Jez and we would thoroughly recommend this company to anyone in a similar situation. Thank you!”

Andy Sadler
Project Manager
Architecting the Enterprise

www.architecting-the-enterprise.com