R Benson

The Project

R Benson decided to move their Chesham office into new premises in Chesham which involved space planning the new premises. The challenge was to move staff from their own or shared office into an open plan environment allied to a selection of small offices and quiet areas.

The desire was to have a reception and meeting area that reflected the image of the company and a bespoke reception desk was included along with visually pleasing meeting furniture. Break out space for staff, fully cable managed desks and ergonomic seating were also high on the wish list.

Sygnus spent a number of months sourcing and recommending the correct furniture working with the budget given and with the help of the client designed a working office that satisfied the clients aspirations.
